Background

The Church of Kakab was founded by the non-human, called Kakab. Who said to come from a higher dimension and he had come to this one, to offer help to those who were lost so that they could transcend and thus find their trueselves. His teachings were permeated in the most poor population of the territory, which quickly won him many followers. So much so that several governments saw their power endangered and sent him to murder. After his assassination, the Church of Kakab, as such, was born.

It places no limits on the expectations of its followers, but it promises nothing and does not guarantee answers, however claims it will back up what it does proclaim, since what it wants is for its followers to find the answers for themselves, unlike other religions, to avoid becoming corrupt and not distorting the teachings of Kakab.

After Kalab's death, their influence gradually disappeared and today in Melukka, they are a minority religion, only concentrated on certain points. Without the influence they had when their founder lived.

Customs

Being part the Church entails adopting its customs. The wearing of the Orange is a simple symbol of faith which represents his approach to Kakab and his teachings. As one climbs into the hierarchy of the Church and gets closer and closer to enlightenment, their bodies are decorated with tattoos, which tell the story of how they came to enlightenment, through their different experiences.

Members must also take on a special diet described as "Seudo - Vegetarianism". This diet excludes meat, with an uncertainty over fish, but does allow insects. Other foodstuffs include: milk, honey, sap and fruit (providing all seeds are saved). Other customs include daily meditation and observation. In addition to opening stalls in the cities to attend to those who are lost and guide them.

Gods

Similar to the oferis, the followers of the Church of Kakab, believe that there is only one god, who is in another dimension and who created this one, to put all living creatures to the test, and that only through enlightenment will it be possible to access it, transcend it and thus stop suffering anymore.

Trivia
